The 2020 Legislative Session reached its halfway mark this past Wednesday, and the legislature is now hurtling into its last 30 days of session. With just two more weeks for House committees to hold hearings, and the Senate facing a similar deadline, legislators are juggling a tremendous number of policy issues. A few headlines from this week illustrate the breadth of issues the legislature is currently addressing:

- “Controversial vacation rental proposal on the move”
- “House pitches wide-ranging tax package”
- “State asks court to continue blocking felons from voting”
- “Controversial bill would end permanent alimony in Florida, change child custody”
- “House continues to push scope expansion for nurses, PAs, and pharmacists”
- “Genetic information ban ready for Senate floor”

The number of bills being considered by the legislature will narrow as many bills fail to move through their final committees due to time and process constraints. Over the next few weeks, the legislature will also turn its attention towards negotiating a budget. This dual track of managing both policy and budget priorities makes for many long days in the coming weeks.

Following is a brief summary of the key issues impacting the Florida Academy of Family Physicians (FAFP).

2020 Doctor of the Day Program

FAFP’s 2020 Doctor of the Day program has reached the mid-session point and many of our members have volunteered to serve in the important program during each of the nine-weeks of the 2020 Legislative Session which runs through March 13. Special thank you this week to FAFP President Dr. Christie Alexander (far right) who, along with resident Dr. Meghan Lewis, served as Doctor of the Day in the House on “FSU Day” sponsored by Rep. Holly Raschein from Key West. Not to be left out is FSU College of Medicine Dean and FAFP member Dr. John J. Fogarty who served on the Senate side. For further information about the program, please contact FAFP Executive Vice President Jay Millson at jmillson@fafp.org.

A Senate companion measure has not been filed to-date.

A linked committee bill, HB 7017 by the Health Quality Subcommittee, deals with the registration and biennial renewal fees for licensing advanced practice registered nurses. Both bills have one final hearing remaining in the Health and Human Services Committee.

The legislation establishes that it is the intent of the legislature to complete a systematic review of the costs and benefits of certain occupational regulatory programs prior to the date set for repeal to determine whether the program should be allowed to expire, be fully renewed, or be renewed with modifications.

On February 10th, the Appropriations Committee was removed as a committee reference for HB 707, so the bill is now on the calendar of bills ready for House floor consideration. SB 1124 is scheduled to be heard in the Governmental Oversight and Accountability on February 17th.
